

CEPF Caribbean Islands Project Grievance Mechanism

A grievance can be an issue, concern or problem that is related to the implementation of a CEPF-funded small or large grant. We have put this grievance redress mechanism (GRM) in place to formally receive and record complaints and solve problems. Anyone who has a concern about any aspect of a CEPF-funded project in the Caribbean Islands Biodiversity Hotspot, including the Regional Implementation Team (RIT), should make a report so we can collectively improve the way we work.

First Level of Redress

Step 1: Submit Complaint

Submit your complaint to the Programme Officer by email, letter, telephone or in writing (see contact information below).

All information received will be treated as confidential. Reports can be anonymous.

Step 3: Record & Notice

We will formally document your complaint and notify the International Iguana Foundation Executive Director.

Step 5: Resolution

We will propose a resolution based on the investigation.

If a resolution cannot be achieved, we will ask the RIT's organisational Grievance Committee for input.

Step 2: Receipt of Complaint

You will receive a response from the Programme Officer within 48 hours, by telephone or in writing.

If the matter cannot be resolved immediately, the Programme Officer will give you a timeline for addressing the issue.

Step 4: Assess & Investigate

We will investigate the issue and document the process, with the participation of an impartial party.

You, and other relevant stakeholders, may be invited to meet with the team leading the investigation.

Step 6: Agreement or Appeal

Once a resolution has been reached, the decision is communicated to you in writing, and documented in our records.

If you are not satisfied with the response, the issue can be transferred to the second level of redress.
